Trinity received the award of honor for the largest average attendance. Rev. Dr. Edwards addressed the meeting, analyzing the great principle underlying the unprecedented success of this Society

He regarded that the great secret of the unabated interest that was manifested in the workings of the Society was the spirit of honorable and praiseworthy emulation which had been infused into it. He urged the schools all to do their very best-not only to have the most flourishing schools but, more than all and above all, to put forth every effort to secure the conversion of the little immortals committed to the care of the Sunday schools. His remarks were well calculated to, and doubtless did, awaken a great interest in the salvation of the children.

Rev. Dr. Head addressed the children, persuading them to cooperate with the officers and teachers of the schools in the efforts made to secure the advancement of the children in religious knowledge. He took an affectionate leave of his numerous friends in the Society and the church, having been assigned to labor in Leesburg, Va. The next meeting will be held at Broadstreet church. A teachers' meeting will be held at Rocketts church on next Sunday afternoon. Baptist .- The revival spirit awakened under Mr. Earle's ministry yet pervades the Baptist churches of Richmond. At the Leigh street church nightly meetings have been held with most encouraging results. On Sunday last eighteen persons-a majority of whom were ladies-were baptized by Rev. A. E. church on Sunday night Rev. Henry Edward Childrey. city for the past year, and no allowance Wall, the rector, preached to a large congregation on the subject of "Future Re-wards and Punishments." Text: "And that servant which knew his Lord's will, and prepared not himself, neither did according to his will, shall be beaten with many stripes."-Luke xii .: 47. Without improvement and police for that district, arguing the question of a future state, which he claimed was answered in the affirmative by both nature and revelation, Mr. Wall urged that the doctrine of future rewards and punishments had in this text a foundation that could not be shaken. If it were not well founded we need have neither hope nor fear of the life to come. He then announced the opinion that the text also clearly taught that there will be different degrees of punishment for the wicked in the future life. This may be inferred from the statement that one servant shall be beaten with many stripes. Others are to receive punishment in the same ratio, but according to the measure of their iniquity. The untutored savage would not in the last great day receive equal condemnation with the children of pious parents and those who have from infancy enjoyed the privilege of hearing the gospel preached. We ourselves will be compelled to acknowledge the justice of the punishment, whatever it may be; and whatever is the fire, it is not quenched; and whatever the worm, it dieth not. The minister closed with an earnest appeal to the impenitent to turn from their ways, and thus escape the inevitable punishment of sin.

English Lutheran .- On Sunday afternoon the services in St. Mark's English Lutheran church were highly interesting. Rev. Mr. Neiffer, the pastor, preached on the theme, Christ at the Marriage Festival in Cana of Gallilee"; or, "The Joyfulness of True Religion." The points of the sermon were well established, and delivered with a great deal of earnestness, showing at once his subject, and believed what he preached. After disposing of other matters, the The audience was one of the largest and most appreciative ever assembled in this church, and judging from the attention paid to the speaker we conclude that the sermon was highly satisfactory.

> THE GERMAN OPERA .- Notwithstanding threatening clouds and other disadvantageous circumstances, a fashionable, and we hope remunerative, audience filled the Theatre last night, the occasion being the debut of the opera troupe of Madame Frederici. Flotow's "Martha" is a favorite with the Richmond public, and during the last six months we have had the pleasure of hearing it rendered in English, French, and now in German. On neither occasion was it received with more demonstration of popular appreciation than on last night. Zeigler, as Martha, made a most favorable Schooner Hope, Booth, Cabin Point, lumber impression, and the same may be said of Charles Phelps. Frederici, who appeared as Nancy. Himmer, Weinlich, and Steinicke displayed fine vocal powers, and were warmly applauded, Altogether, the entertainment was most agreeable, and judging from last night, we Richmond.

Religious veneration and love marked characteristics of the sons of ebrated the name of St. Patrick and his deeds throughout the English-speaking world, and to the American "St. Patrick's Day in the Morning" is almost as familiar as "Hail Columbia" or "Yankee Docdle."

Notwithstanding the mist that overhangs the birth-place and infancy of the great preacher, the Irish people have localized him sufficiently for all the purposes of their reverence and love. He is to them their father in the gospel, and as such they honor him. The legends of the Saint at the Irish firesides are always amusing and often instructive. One of these tales is that on one occasion he wanted to cross the Irish channel, but the vessel in which he had intended to sail had just cleared as he reached the pier. He must keep his appointment; and nothing daunted, he threw a large, smooth stone into the water, and jumping upon it, was wafted out to sea, and overtook the ship, into which he was taken. But St. Patrick is specially famed for his banishment of reptiles from Ireland and for his illustration of trinity and unity. The shamrock (the Persian name for connection by Irishmen ever since. It is related of one of the Irish chieftains who had been baptized by Patrick that the Saint, in sticksupposing it was part of the proceedings, stood quietly to the close, when Patrick, beholding the wound bleeding profusely, passed his stick over it and healed it. There are many such incidents as these related, all of which, if properly appreciated, are inspirations to faith rather than monstrous inventions, as they are sometimes considered. There is a wide difference of opinion in regard to the death as there is concerning the birth of Ireland's patron saint. But all are agreed that his

Republican Nominations Virginia State Ticket

The undersigned, citizens of Virginia, and earnest friends of the restoration of our mais to the Union under the reconstruction acts of Congress, believe that the time has fully come when a congress, believe that the time has fully come when a congress, believe that the time has fully come when a congress the lieve that of the first that it is not to the first and selfed politicians.

the liepathican party of Virginia from the manage ment and control of designing and selfah politicians.

We are satisfied that the Convention which assembled at Petersburg on the 5th instant did not reflect the feelings and wishes of the Republicans of the state, and that the means used to a sure the nomination of the persons who are placed upon the State theket were such as cannot secure the sametion of approval of these who de are to promote the welfare of our people. We feel that there has notwer been a period in her history when the coonsel and direction of wise, experienced, and particulate men whose unselfish a gard for the public weal commend them to the confidence and support of the people were more emineatly needed. The men who are put forward for the highest honors of our restored Commonwealth are between the confidence; and we fear that defeat a walls the party; because many of the best of our citizens who are now identified with our people to secure that confidence; and we fear that defeat a walls the event of their election, and are disposed to resent and resist the deteation of the arrogans and presumptuous clique of political adventurers by whom the late ouvention was count. Bed.

We helieve that a large majority of the intelligent and reflecting people of virginia who have a permanent interest in the prosperity of the state are becoming convinced that they shall accept and carry out to good faith the measures proposed by Congress for the reconstruction of the southern states, and are earnestly desirous of adopting the great principles sounciated by the Republicant party of the country. We believe that they will cheerfully support true and well-known Republicants for state officers; and to afford them as opportunity to do this we respectfully recommend.

This composition is the perfecture resulting from a long series of experiments to find a process by which leather may be made water proof without heavily clogging it with clumsy compositions. The principal ingredient is the pure oil which is used in tanning the best French leather. It never pardens, does not stain or soil, and is the only thing over which you can polish next day.

The Shoe and Leather Reporter, the best authority, says: "It is acknowledged by all classes to be the only real water-proof leather preservator made on this continent, for the reason that the manufacturer and proprietor is a practical currier, and understands what is required to preserve and restore leather and resist water. This composition will render poor leather water proof, and wake hard leather soft and pliable as French calf.
